

Welcome to Germany.info

Search for

Home > Further Information

- Home
- German Missions
 - > German Embassy
 - > German Information Center
 - > Consulates General
- Topics
 - > Welcome to Germany
 - > Visa, Passport & Legal
 - > Foreign Policy & State
 - > Economy, Energy & Climate, Innovation
 - > Culture & Sports
 - > Language & Education
 - > Press & Media

170 Years of the Lipan Treaty

Oct 20, 2014

Consul General Redeker with Lipan Apache Tribe Members Robert Soto (left) and Bernard Barcena Jr. (right) (©germany.info/houston)

The German Consulate welcomed members of the Lipan Apaches, whose ancestors in 1844 concluded a treaty for the peaceful coexistence with the German settlers of Central Texas.

German Consulate General and Lipan Apache Members (©germany.info/houston)

Consul General Ricarda Redeker had the honor to receive the guests for a lunch in keeping with the tradition as the first meeting between the settlers and the Lipan Apaches was held with a breakfast so many years ago. Both the Consul General and the Lipan-Apache guests exchanged gift in honor of the peace treaty and its unbroken ties to this day.

More pictures of the visit can be found in the gallery to the right of page.

©germany.info/houston

Share

Lipan Apache Visits Consulate General in Honor of the 170th Anniversary of the Lipan Apache Treaty

> Lipan Apache Treaty Visit

